ELLSWORTH AUSTRIANS OFFER SERVICES TO UNITED STATES

Believe Greater Opportunities Lie With This County so Enlist

WARNING TO POWDER DEALERS

Chief of Police Explicit in Warning Against Sale of Explosives To Suspicious Foreigners of Unknown Strangers

Five Austrians from Ellsworth, following the lead of a fellow countryman in Charleroi the last week, enlisted today at the Charleroi recruiting office for service with Uncle Sam and were taken by Corporal Holes to Pittsburg. On Wednesday a Charleroi Austrian, Joseph A. Kendra was reported as enlisting in Pittsburg having been sent there by Corporal Holes.

The story of the Austrians is the same all the way through. While they love Austria, the land of their birth they love America, their adopted land more, seeing opportunities here they could not have in Austria. They believe that in enlisting in the war against Germany they are enlisting in a fight for democracy. The members of the Ellsworth party were Joe Paflicake, John Saniga, Joe Bryezk and Steve Kuresh.

Chief of Police C. W. Albright is explicit in a general warning to dealers to avoid selling dynamite and powder to suspicious foreigners. He asks that all dealers know to whom they are selling, now that martial law prevails.

COAL CENTRE MAN HELD FOR PLANTING EXPLOSIVE

James Stanlis, the Coal Centre foreigner accused of planting the explosive which caused the wrecking of the John Heller home and brought about the fatal injury of Mrs. Heller early Wednesday morning, was held Wednesday night pending the outcome of Mrs. Heller's injuries. Today he was removed to jail at Washington. A hearing was given him by Justice of the Peace Andrew Shafer.

OUTSIDE DEALERS ARE RESTRAINED

Judge McIlvaine Permanently Enjoins Brewing Concerns

MUST HELD COUNTY LICENSE

Reiterating what he ruled at the preliminary hearing some weeks ago, that outside dealers in liquor must not come into this county and flood it with their produces by the help of agents and unlimited solicitation, Judge McIlvaine Wednesday made perpetual temporary injunctions restraining those dealers against whom bills in equity had been filed by District Attorney Baum.

The adjudication referred at length to the sales in the county of the Steuben Brewing company of Steubenville, O., which alone fought the suit against it; declares that its shipping of carload lots of beer into the county to be distributed by an agent is in violation of the spirit of the Pennsylvania laws; and grants a perpetual injunction restraining it, its agent and express company carrying its product, from doing business in the county.

Other defendants in the district attorney's suits against whom perpetual injunctions were granted were: Victor Brewing company of Jeannette and agents; and Joseph Calevro and others, Fred Anthony and others and Arthur Bellomo and others, wholesale liquor dealers of Steubenville, O.

Judge McIlvaine stated that he

Irresistible Woman Lends Her Aid to Country in Recruiting Campaign

The part woman is playing in the country's preparation for war can hardly be pictured, her activities are so varied. Her principal aim is now to be ready to take the place of man should she be called upon. In perhaps a hundred cities she is busy in the service of her country. The picture shows her in a spectacular activity. This group of women compose a part of the Motor Squad of the Committee for Women's Service. They are lending their assistance to regularly constituted recruiting officers in New York and are meeting with success.

POTATOES ARE DRUG ON MARKET IN FLORIDA YET ARE SELLING AT $1 PER PECK; CROPS GOOD

T. P. Grant on Return From South Tells of Conditions ---More Garden Truck and Grain Being Raised Than Ever Before

New potatoes are selling in Florida at $1 a peck and are a drug on the market, according to T. P. Grant of Lincoln avenue who has just returned from spending the winter in Orlando. Yet more truck is being raised than ever before, so that the outlook is promising.

A large crop of corn is anticipated. Already the corn is beginning to tassel, and there are great fields of it the length and breadth of the state. The same is true of potatoes. People who never bothered either with garden truck or grain before are raising both this year, doing this rather than pay the exceedingly high prices asked. And Florida growers are learning things as a result that will make them more independent than ever. One grower, a county sheriff, told Mr. Grant he had planted 25 acres of potatoes. He expects 60 barrels to the acre as a yield. There being approximately 2 3-4 bushels to the barrel, this will mean as his crop 165 bushels. Samuel Jones of Belle Vernon is interested in a ranch in Florida. The ranch superintendent, Sam Jones, planted corn [illegible] The result has been [illegible] cost of feeding stock [illegible] was extremely high it has been impossible to feed it from the farm and to fatten it better.

Potatoes that we find in some markets in western Pennsylvania, says Mr. Grant, would not be picked from the ground in Florida. They are too poor. Prices of cabbage are higher than usual, selling not below 8 cents per pound. Strawberries are selling at from 15 to 20 cents per quart basket—the Florida quart basket being about twice the size of the so-called quart basket of western Pennsylvania. Celery is not high. Lettuce is retailing at 5 cents. Green peas are ten cents per quart, on an average.

EXCITEMENT MAY HAVE BEEN CAUSE OF LABORIE'S DEATH

Coroner's Jury Investigates Returning Verdict That Heart Trouble Was Direct Cause

That in some sense excitement was a cause of the death Monday of Dennis Laborie, was the finding of the coroner's jury sitting in the investigation conducted by Coroner James T. Heffran this morning at the undertaking rooms of Lawrence B. Frye. Mr. Laborie fell dead while discussing matters of work in the box department of Macbeth-Evans Glass company, where he was employed. The exact cause of death was rupture of the heart. Members of the jury were Carl M. Wertz, William Geho, S. R. Crawford, Eugene Fau, William Lambert and Edward Ferrell.

Burgess and Mrs. S. L. Woodward spent Thursday in Pittsburg.

ENTERS HOME, MURDERS WOMAN AND ESCAPES, LEAVING NO TRACE

Sensational Shooting Occurs in Daylight Hour in Monongahela

MAN DISPLEASED WITH WOMAN

Deed Said to Have Been Premeditated —Before Leaving, Man Took Precaution to Draw Pay and Quit Job With Coal Company.

Entering with a revolver in each hand Lorenza Campagne shot and killed Mrs. Margaret Malotte and shot up the home of Mrs. Anna Desetti, on Warren street, Monongahela this morning at 9 o'clock, as the result of alleged dissatisfaction over the way his love affairs were progressing. The deed done, he turned and walked out, and is still going, the police having been unable to locate any trace of him. Mrs. Desetta escaped unharmed, though the desperate man turned the two weapons on her as she stood at an ironing board and splattered bullets all about. She dodged through a convenient door and ran to a neighbors.

Trouble started some time ago, when Campagne romed with John Malotte and Margaret, his wife. It is said that the attentions he paid the woman caused the couple to part and Mrs. Malotte went to live with her brother John Dessetti. Campagne, according to supposition, made further advances, it is stated, only to be repulsed both by the woman and her brother. Then it is believed he became obsessed with the idea of murder, this being followed by [illegible] employed by the Home Coal company and this morning was at the office bright and early to secure his pay, so that the police hold the theory that his deed was premeditated.

Just one shot struck Mrs. Malotte from eight or nine that were fired wildly. It hit between her eyes and penetrated her brain. Her body was removed to the morgue of Bebout and Yohe and Coroner James T. Heffran notified. Police of Monongahela are searching all corners of the city for trace of Campagne, who is described as a dark-haired Italian about 5 feet 10 inches in height, weighing about 165 pounds. He was dressed in a dark blue suit.

"SLOTH" ONE OF SEVEN SINS, AT THE MAJESTIC

Manager W. S. Sweeney of the Majestic theatre today is producing one of the series of Seven Deadly Sins, "Sloth," with Charlotte Walker in the starring role. Miss Walker is supported by an excellent cast and the settings are beautiful. The entire drama is an absorbing play, exposing the sins of laziness. Like other dramas of the series which have been produced before it is aimed to teach some lesson of great moral value in a decidedly entertaining way.

INDUSTRIES CLAIM COMMERCIAL STUDENTS FOR CLERICAL FORCES

Schools Losing Because of Demand For Workmen in Offices of Railroads and Mills

Commercial departments of high schools and private business schools are experiencing difficulty in holding their pupils because of the need by railroads and mills of young men and women for their clerical forces. In the Charleroi high school this condition has been noticed. Good offers have been made to young men there, who have taken up technical work, and different ones have been drawn from the institution.

FOUND DEAD IN ROOM, BULLET HOLE IN BODY

George Lembardo, aged 22 years, a well known Monessen Italian is dead from a bullet wound in his heart. Tony Pizzuti, also a Monessen Italian, is being held pending coronial investigations already instituted by Coroner Hawkins of Westmoreland county.

Lembrdo was found dead in his room this morning at 9 o'clock. Pizzuti was the only man in the house at the time so the police arrested him immediately upon the discovery of the tragedy. Pizzuti says Lembrdo had been brooding over some sort of trouble and had called him to his room, asking him to do an errand. Pizzuti went out and upon his return, he says, he found Lembrdo dead.

A CITY OF TALENT

A few years ago the sugestion was made that if a summer Chautauqua was favored in Charleroi, it be a truly home affair, with musical and speaking talent chosen from among its residents and citizens. It would have been possible had anyone taken a notion to organize the thing and secure the backing.

Charleroi has about as much talent to the square inch as any borough its size in the United States, and is not at all backward about proving the fact. Cultured Boston boasts of its music, rightly of course, but relative size considered it will have to take a back seat for Charlero..

Approximately six big musical offerings will be presented to a discriminating public within a period of about three weeks time near the first of May. They will range from a musical club concert through varying stages to an oratorio, symphony concert and school recital. Not another borough of Charleroi's size anywhere would dare attempt anything like this. But Charleroi will get away with it because Charleroi knows how.

ABOUT THE RED CROSS

Nothing very tangible has been done toward the organization here of a Red Cross unit, though there is an admitted need. Elsewhere the movement has been taken up and enthusiastically and good sized funds raised. Only a little work is required.

Soon the United States may become embroiled in a conflict that so far has only talked about or imagined. When the actual fighting begins the duties of the American Red Cross will increase. The society must have funds. We should not like to see our men suffering from lack of care and feel that our own neglect was the cause. We need to be prepared.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

IS PEACE SO NEAR?

Too much store should not be placed on the stories of rioting in Berlin, because of the curtainment of 25 per cent of a food ration already irritatingly short, for outbreaks of that character are expected. Neither need there be too much stress placed upon the minimized energy displayed, by the striking workmen in the only demonstration permissible in war time under martial regularions. for that also might be expected. The somewhat sensational tone thrown into the statement that the Socialist minority of Germany has organized to make war upon the Government and its policies should be taken with several grains of allowance, for formal organization of the betrayed Socialist minority adds nothing to its political strength in or out of the Reichstag. The resolute little group has held its ground and its principles in the face of treacheries from within and without, prisons, court-martial, fraternal ostracism, and its definite parting from the majority wing gives it no new force.

Perhaps the most significant feature of the general strike in Berlin that was so in name only was the sober advice given to the strikers by the Vorwaerts, the Socialistic mouthpiece, and its circulation by consent of the censor. Vorwaerts counseled workmen not to proceed too far in their objections against the shortening of the food ration, because to do so might endanger peace negotiations in progress in Socialist quarters, but most significant was the remark that for a general strike to intrude might make conditions far worse for the country, which would be a misfortune akin to clamity "now when peace seems so near." The inference from this is that Vorwaerts has access to party information, well concealed, probably because it is in foreign capitals, although the fact that the Government gave consent to its publication might be taken to mean that the Kaiser's advisers are willing to have it reach the people. Another interpretation might be that a large proportioned revolt in Berlin at present would endanger plans for a genuine revolution well under way that will be like throwing a monkey wrench into the war machine.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

JOIN THE RED CROSS

A campaign has been inaugurated by the local or Washington chapter of the Red Cross to secure 20,000 members. This is an ambitious program for the organization, but it is not impossible. Many other towns in the country have already done this much in proportion. The little town of Beaver with less than 4,000 population had a membership of over 2,500 one week ago. Washington alone has a population of 25,000 and there are at least that many more people living close to it.

Hundreds of men can afford to take our memberships for every member of their families. Everyone wants to in some way be identified with the present movement for the aid of the nation and here is an easy and substantial manner of doing something even though it be little. Millions of dollars can be raised throughout this country for the important relief work if every citizen will do his duty.

The Red Cross is an organization intensely human that seeks to bring comfort to the unfortunate at all times, to minister to the victims of flood, fire and explosion, to ease the lives of the tubercular, to solace the wounded. In peace times, it does a tremendous work; in times of war there is no measuring its service.

Such an organization always needs money and in war more than in peace. It needs service—an act Washington has been rendering for some weeks, but to expand its service it needs more in the form of memberships is the object of its campaign already under way.

It has a broad appeal. It makes no distinctions either in its membership or regarding those to whom it ministers. Its agents have been working on both sides of the battle lines in Europe. Its nurses ask no questions of race, color or creed. It ministers to all alike. In the war which impends, it has a big job ahead of it. It needs help. It asks little. It ought to have much.

Like a nurse and mother it stands at the elbow of the fighting forces of this nation. It is recognized by the national government as a first-aid instrument of priceless value. It affords opportunity for those who cannot, dare not or will not enlist in the military service, to render aid and do their bit. It is open to [illegible] women [illegible]

There is no [illegible] county to stand by your country than to enroll in the Red Cross. It has various grades of membership but for a dollar you may be enrolled. It carries no further obligation but it does decorate one's conscience with a wreath of duty performed.—Washington Observer.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

The men of the fire department of a western town decided on the occasion of his birthday to present to their chief a fine axe. Elaborate preparations were made for the presentation in a ceremonial manner, and there was to be a presentation speech. The eloquent address framed cost the speaker many hours of mental toil.

The hall was flag-draped when the big day came. On the platform sat a lot of firemen in full regalia. In the seats sat the prominent citizens of the town with their families. After a prayer by a minister, a piano selection, etc., came the presentation address.

The spokesman opened his mouth, but words came not. He looked at the chief, at the floor, at the ceiling, then made a wild gesture gave a gulp and said:

"Here's your axe."

The chief, who had arisen, gave him one look of dumb consternation, and rejoined:

"Gosh! Is that the axe?"

"Oh, yes, Irv," said honest Farmer Hornbeck, in reply to the inquiry of a friend. "I'm getting along real well with my new motor car. I have already learned to remember not to paw around for the whip when I want a little more speed, and I seldom holler 'Haw' or 'Gee!' when trying to turn a corner. I reckon likely by the middle of next month I'll be about over the habit of throwing a halter into the machine before I start for town."

At a certain public school it was the custom for the teachers to write on the blackboard any instructions they desired the janitor to receive.

One evening, while cleaning a room the janitor saw written:

"Find the greatest common denominator"

"Hullo!" he exclaimed, "Is that darned thing lost again?"

IMPORTANT CODE FOR TOWNSHIPS

Raft of Existing Laws in Separate Act.

SCHEDULED TO GO THROUGH

In Future Every Law Affecting Townships of the Two Classes May be Found in One General Code—Will Repeal Obsolete Acts by Assembly.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 27.—Some slight reference was made in these columns last week to the proposed township code now before the legislature. It is now understood that all the leaders of the two bodies are behind the movement for this codification and that there is little question of its enactment. The code is of vital importance to the hundreds of townships throughout the commonwealth.

In this codification it has been sought to repeal all laws which have been superseded though not hitherto specifically repealed, to consolidate provisions of the same tenor in certain laws which were separately enacted, to eliminate provisions not now operative, and all unnecessary and redundant expressions, as well as all provisions where the intent of the same can be more clearly expressed otherwise; to rewrite provisions the language of which is obscure, where the decisions of the courts have indicated the manner in which this may be done, to express with certainty wherever possible what is indefinitely stated in the various acts by such expressions as "in the manner provided by law," "the proper officer," etc.; to separate provisions in acts where such provisions relate to several subjects, and insert them in that portion of the codification treating of each of said subjects.

Existing laws have not been materially changed in preparing this codification. A few changes have been made to simplify and harmonize procedure. In going over all township acts the framers of the code saw the desirability of making important changes in the existing laws, but these modifications are not in the code. Rather they are merely recommended and the code is so drawn that amendment to meet the recommendations can easily be made to the law.

One Time Road Districts.

From the beginning of the commonwealth until quite recently townships were nothing more than road districts, electing officers to attend to the opening and repair of roads and the levying of taxes for such purposes. Within the last forty years the legislature has from time to time conferred new powers and imposed new duties upon the supervisors not directly connected with road affairs. The act of 1899 classified townships into two classes and made all existing townships of the second class, and provided a procedure whereby those of a given population might become townships of the first class. This act of 1899 provided a new system of government for townships of the first class and enumerated many powers and duties now possessed by municipal corporations.

Since the act of 1899 many acts have been passed some applicable to first class townships others to second-class townships, while still others apply to both classes. In several instances it has been difficult to ascertain just what acts were intended to include. For instance, an act will confer certain powers upon townships by the use of the general term, but the officer provided by the act to carry out such power is an officer of one class of townships only such as a supervisor or a township commissioner.

Is a Township a Municipality?

Considerable trouble was experienced with the numerous acts relating to municipalities. While the supreme court has lately ruled that a first class township is not a municipal corporation, there are several late cases decided by the lower courts which rule that a township is a municipality. Pursuant to this ruling, a number of acts relating to municipalities have been included.

In addition to the above many acts which have been superseded by subsequent laws, but not expressly repealed, still remain upon the statute books where they serve only to confuse the reader. Other acts have been so variously amended at different times and for different purposes that it is frequently difficult to determine how much of the original act is in force. Provisions relating to different subjects are some times contained in a single section, so that, in order to ascertain the law relating to townships, it is necessary to examine practically the entire body of laws relating to many general subjects, as for example: Municipalities, roads, highways and bridges, parks and playgrounds and the like.

Many acts are obscure in their language. Many acts have been amended more than once, a subsequent amendment overlooking a prior one, thereby necessitating an examination into all the amendments so as to ascertain the provisions of all the amendments which are not inconsistent. Many acts have been passed to cover present contingencies and failed to provide for others which might happen in the future.

P. & L.E. PAYS $9,000 FOR WIRETON PROPERTY

Check Passes For Purchase of One Acre of Ground Needed for Additional Tracage—Litigation Over Value of Real Estate

The Pittsburg & Lake Erie, railroad company has settled with the Woods heirs for nine-tenths of an acre of river front adjoining the Pittsburg Steel company's property at Wireton. The check passed to the former owners was for $9,000. This settles a long contention as to the amount awarded by the viewers, the value of this property. Several years ago the railroad company started negotiations for one acre of the land through a Monessen real estate agent, but the price asked was $60,000, which was considered exhobitant. Pressing industrial business in the upper valley made additional demands upon the railroad company from time to time and it became urgent that they increase their trackage at Wireton and finally the company went into court and filed bond for any damage that might accrue to the property owners and proceeded to take possession. The court appointed viewers who arranged for a hearing in the court house at Greensburg. Many witnesses were subpoenaed who testified to the value of the property and finally an agreement was reached and a return made to court for the amount named. No appeal was taken by the Woods people and when the time had elapsed the company made a tender of the money which was accepted and receipted for. This ends the transaction. The same parties own three and one half acres yet of the same tract and with the river front sold, it is considered by the viewers to be worth approximately $4,000 an acre.

MOTOR TO UNIONTOWN FOR WEDDING CEREMONY

Flannigan-Michaux Marriage Occurs In Methodist Episcopal Church and Happy Couple Leave on Wedding Trip to Washington

Surprising friends, Miss Esther Jean Michaux, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Michaux of McKean avenue and Hagan Flannigan of Charleroi, motored to Uniontown Wednesday and were married by Rev. Carlyle in the Methodist Episcopal church at 6 o'clock. Attending the couple were the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lamreau. The wedding was an unostentatious event, with the ring ceremony being used.

Afterwards the happy couple left on a trip of two weeks to Virginia, Washington, D. C. and other points. Upon their return they will take up their residence at the home of the bride's parents for the present and later go to housekeeping.

MAN'S EVIDENT SINCERITY WINS HIM HIS RELEASE

Judge R. W. Irwin granted a parole Wednesday to a man, who has served seven months in the workhouse. He would have had about three months more to serve. The parole is granted on condition that the man hereafter conduct himself as a law abiding citizen, go to work and support his family.

The man will do this, so he says, in a letter he wrote to Pal bation Officer F. H. Mitchell. He said he wanted to return home, to go to work make a garden and support his family. He wrote a very good letter to the probation officer.

Among other things he said: "I think I have been punished sufficiently at least to ask for mercy. I do not mean that I did not reserve it, for I did. In fact it is the best thing that ever happened me. If I had got away with that, I might have done something else. Being caught showed me where I was wrong."

The man was sent up for complicity in a theft. He said it was the first time he had done anything of such a kind and that it would be his last. Hesays he is sorry for what has happened, but that it has shown him the error of his way. Further he says he means to live a good clean and sober life from now on, "for," as he says, "it was drink that got me into that scrape."

The man worked for 23 years in one mill and can get work any time he returns there. He says he is getting old, that his family needs him and he asks that the officer see the court and get him a parole or his sentence cut down.

The court was shown the letter and the sincerity impressed it. The man will be released at once and allowed to return home.

STATE POLICE WILL BE USED IN GUARD WORK

Monongahela Detachment, With Others, Is Ordered to Return to Barracks—May be Sent to the State Capital

In line with the policy to protect Pennsylvania against alien enemies inside and outside the commonwealth the State police force have received orders which will make them a part of the protecting force. Though no word has been given out as to the possible destination of the organization, all permanent detachments have been called into their respective troop barracks. Wednesday the Monongahela detachment composed of Corporal Sturm and Privates Jimcoskey and Sellers wound up local business and started for Greensburg today. The order for their return stated only that the troops would be used for internal defense. The governor requested a detachment of the state police a few days ago for duty about the capital grounds in Harrisburg and it is likely the entire force will be called into service for taking care of the capital city and the more important points in the state.

OUTSIDE DEALERS ARE RESTRAINED

who sells liquor in Washington county absolutely must hold a license from the county courts.

The Steuben Brewing company contended that it ceased illegal selling last December, when the district attorney objected to its methods of doing business in the county. Judge McIlvaine, however, refused to dismiss the bill against it, granted an injunction perpetually restraining it and ordered it to pay the cost of the proceedings. The other defendants named in the action were the Ohio Express & Transfer company, Dominic Falconi, Antonio Falconi, John Richin, John Costello and Adam Bartlich, agents.

In the Bellomo and Anthony cases, the costs are placed on the defendants. In the Bellomo case, all the defendants named are perpetually enjoined except James Tavern and the Tri-County Express company. The bill as to them is dismissed. In the Calevro case, the costs were put on Calevro.

In the Victor Brewing company case, in which Frank Bertanzetti, Gildo Bertanzetti, B. Bertanzetti, and A. Supanick were also named defendants, the perpetual injunction affects all. The costs were placed on the brewing company.

The Pittsburg Brewing company and Independent Brewing company, against whom bills were also filed, agreed to stop selling according to their old methods and the bills against them were dismissed.

GARDEN COLUMN

By National Emergency Food Commission

Lettuce and Radishes.

Lettuce and radishes should be among the first crops planted in the home garden. As soon as the hard freeze is ever and the ground be worked, both crops can be set out immediately. Neither crop does well in hot weather, but both thrive in the cool of spring and autumn.

The usual method, of planting lettuce is to scatter the seed broadcast as grass seed is sown and the picking the leaves singly when they are large enough for use.

A better method, however, is to plant head lettuce in rows, sowing the seed abundantly, but when the plants come up thinning them out until they are 6 inches or more apart. The rows can be as close together as 1 foot. The entire head, like a cabbage, is then cut for the kitchen.

Because lettuce does not withstand heat well, for crisp leaves in the summer you must provide shade for the plants. This can be done by setting planks on edge along the south sides of the rows.

For head lettuce a half ounce of seed will plant 100 feet of row. The seed should be planted in drills (trenches) half an inch deep.

The faster radishes grow the better they are in flavor. Most varieties are rapid in growth, some being ready for use in two to three weeks after the seed is planted. To facilitate quick the soil should be light and thoroughly prepared for them. Because of their rapid maturity it is well not to plant the whole bed at once, but to make successive plantings every 10 days or 2 weeks.

An ounce of radish seed will plant a row 100 feet long. Most radish seed are fertile, so that they can be planted at about the distance apart the plants should be in the row, thus avoiding thinning. This distance in the row may be as short as 1 inch. The seed should be planted a half inch deep, and in a small garden the rows ought not to be over 1 foot apart.

PROSPECTS GOOD FOR FAYETTE'S PEACH CROP

Due, perhaps to the fact that they were hardened by continued cold and held back by the same cause, peach blossoms have not suffered from the recent freezing weather, persons who have examined them say. Contrary to early reports, there should be a considerable crop in some sections near Connellsville. April weather dangen from frost will be slight, it is believed.
